Dedication

We, the class of 1965, dedicate our yearbook to Robert J. Coane, Senior class advisor.

Mr. Coane has given many years of service to the students of Wood-Ridge High. As senior advisor, he has directed plans for the prom, the Senior dances, and various other senior activities.

We wish to express our great appreciation for all the work he has done for us.

Foreword

Just as winter fades into spring and opens up new life, so do our lives renew themselves, and each ending becomes a beginning.

As we look back with fond memories, and forward with high hopes, we realize what our education has really meant, and the good we have already started to receive from it.

Many of us will go on to higher education; some will enter the business world; and others will find employment in many varied fields. All of us will take with us knowledge, ingenuity, and craftmanship acquired in our years in Wood-Ridge High School.

We leave with our hearts full of excitement for the new adventures ahead. But we leave the halls with our memories to linger within them, remembering all friendships, activities, and thoughts that brought us together in high school.

Remember When...

Mrs. Eckersen had to beat us to get her N.Y. Times money.
The sophomore girls hated the senior girls in A lunch because we knocked over their barricade.
When Gail's hair was natural.
When Linda and Gail were always in the shop.
We had Senior Dress Up Day.
We all used to dress up in old clothes and go out on mischief night.
Mrs. Patterson always talked to the picture of Abe Lincoln, because her classes were so dumb.
Marie T. wrote over her face and knee in Mrs. Pat's class.
The "Grapevine" started.
Everyone was roaming the halls on the Washington trip in the wee hours of the morning.
When Mike Newman drank Jade East on the skiing trip.
When Joan and Karen went galivanting after cooking class on errands of "peace."
When Walter S. got caught in the wrong lunch period with Cheryl B.
Remember the "Five Brains" in Chemistry 7th period.
When Colette and Kathy shared the locker in their Senior year.
All the fun on our class trip to Seaside, in our junior year.
All the Class Sweethearts broke up.
Remember when Jane M. and Jo Anne C. started Collegiate bit.
When we cheered for C.Y.O.
Jo Anne B. forgot her eyebrows for church.
When Miss Bello told Ballard he would be doing duty in 208 after school.
Jo Anne, Joan, and Karen went to Shelton College and wound up in Maywood Police Station.
Laura had the brillo's.
When the Ott's Spot song was made up.
The A.M.B.C.'s held parties.
Miss Estona was cheerleader advisor.
Roy, Paul, Greg, and Donie went to Crestwood Lake, and Roy ran in the Girls Room to keep out of the rain.
Greg blew up his '57 Ford.
We used to take long walks because no one drove.
Remember when Marylou, Doreen, Denice, and Laura went to Newark and almost didn't get a ride home.
Remember when Laura had her party and everyone from New Jersey was there including the cops.
Greg broke his leg and had 30 guys in the room when the nurse came.
Everyone took turns pushing George's motorcycle.
New Years' Eve in the Village.
Remember all the times Falco got killed when he fought someone.
Tom P. and Walt B. jumped out the window in English III.
When the Luau burned down and all the Seniors mourned.
Mrs. Karcher called Mike N. honey in English IV.
Remember when Marylou told Jack S. that she hit his car.
When we came from Assumption.
Laura, Jo Ann, George, and Tony used to talk to Mr. De in study hall.
Mr. Bowles called everything stable-fellow, and everything unstable-her.
Mr. Panzarino said "On the face of the earth" real quick like.
Mr. Hazuda threw chairs when he got agitated.
Mrs. Pat used to say "Yoo-hoo!" to Abe Lincoln.
Mrs. Pat called Laura "Onionhead."
Galina and Janice E. were caught playing dice in Mr. Moran's 3rd period English III class.
Mrs. Pat told Marie T. to get in her locker and stay there.
All the good times at the park.
Someone left Denice's stove on, and when she decided to make coffee, it blew up.
Pam and Pat were voted Class Pals, and had a rumble and weren't talking the week after.
Some of the senior girls got engaged.
Pam W. and Ginny P. went to Florida and met Gene T. and Pete R. there.
Pam got a summons and the judge told her if she didn't stop arguing, he'd fine her for contempt of court, too.
We went to Atlantic City and missed being basketball state Champs in the last few seconds.
We had free lunchtimes.
Kathy K. sat in Clara's birthday cake.
Someone yelled at Mr. Coane for stepping on their pet amoeba "Herman."
All the senior couples patronized the "passion pit," and in rain, snow, sleet, hail. . . .
The year Kathy G. was Mrs. Pat's favorite pupil!
We copied the whole book and got A's.
Pam and Diana took the N. Y. Regents tests and wound up in Macy's lingerie department with Ronnie B.
The skiing trip in our Senior year when there was no snow and we all became pool sharks.
The 3 a.m. party in Washington when the house detective came.
Mr. Sweet told some seniors to suck their thumbs in Spanish III.
When all the Moonachie kids came up in 9th grade.

When Mr. Sweet was asked where his bag-pipes were in Spanish II.
Our senior gym class with Miss Estona.
MaryLou and Annette were sweethearts.
When Wally broke his leg in the gym review.
When Mike B. asked Jane M. to the Prom and then asked Diane B.

Basketball

This year's basketball team had its ups and downs. The main problem that they had to face was a serious lack of height.

They did a fine job in winning a game in the Christmas tournament.

They found the season a little rough, but seemed to pull through with good sportsmanship.
